Agenda Item: Protecting the Rights of Women in Afghanistan

As a strong supporter of human rights and gender equality, Germany recognizes the critical importance of addressing the challenges facing women in Afghanistan. The situation in Afghanistan has long been a concern for the international community, particularly with regards to women's rights and well-being. Germany repeats its commitment to supporting the goals of the UN Women agenda, empowering women and protecting their rights.

As a country committed to the principles of the United Nations, Germany acts in line with the UN Women agenda and repeats its commitment to support efforts that advance gender equality at the global level. Germany recognizes that addressing the specific needs of women in Afghanistan requires a complex approach involving a range of diplomatic efforts, humanitarian assistance and capacity building programs.

Germany remains committed to promoting gender equality and protecting women's rights in Afghanistan. Through a balanced approach addressing education, health, economic empowerment and legal reforms, Germany aims to improve the living conditions of Afghan women as well as the women all around the world. The international community needs to come together to create an enabling environment that supports women, strengthens their participation in society and respects and protects their human rights.
