Position Paper

We, as the delegation of State of Kuwait I have to inform you that our country has been aiding somalia for years and won't stop our aid. But the conflict is still going on and the aid funds that given to somalia is given in forms of loan, unfortunately Somalian Government is using that loan mostly for paying debts which they acquired in efforts to ending the crisis and this leads to greater debt for the Somalian Government.

While acts of piracy is heavily decreased over the years this doesn't mean it won't be rampant again, if it becomes rampant this means there will be much more spending on protecting merchant ships(which protecting is already expensive and the strategy used is not really cost effective) and much more sea traffic with less ships with economical purpose ships. This means world and local Somalian economy will be slowed and further destabilise the region.

As State of Kuwait pledged in 2021 to end the crisis we suggest a more direct action and if we wait to sort things itself out by just sending aid and wait , it won't be just a waste of funds and manpower instead acts of terrorism, piracy and violence will happen again again as it happened in the past to prevent this crisis to get longer we have to provide a more active strategy.
