

Committee: United Nations Security Council (UNSC)

Agenda Item: The Current Situation in Central African Republic

Country: Republic of Korea (South Korea)

Delegate: Ahmet Yiğit Kuş

Nowadays, protection is a very important element in our World's improvement and development. As the delegation of South Korea, we believe that every country and their society deserves peace. As a result of this, we are against any kind of conflict. Conflicts happening recently inside the Central African Republic may cause huge outer problems. We believe that the war has to be immediately stopped.

The Central African Republic Civil War is an ongoing civil war in the Central African Republic that can be defined as a joint war. Different groups have conflicts between each other and create tension inside the country. The international peacekeeping forces do not have enough authorization and power to deal with the rebels and the Central African Republic's army. The history of the war shows us that the conflict inside there has the potential to grow and to spread to the whole continent. With this evidence, we see how immediate action should be taken by the United Nations Security Council.

We should be aware of the possible consequences of this issue. We should give more authority to the international peacekeeping forces. The low amount of authority that the peacekeeping forces have had so far made their job harder, even impossible. After giving the authority that they need, they will have a chance to stop the internal war inside there. Another solution that can be created by us could be the delivery of more forces. We can easily send more forces. We believe that we will not have any kind of obstacles in front of us. The power and wealth we have will lighten the way in front of us. We will do our best in this conference and create the most possible solutions in order to help the Central African Republic's government and its society.
