

Ukraine's Position on the UNDP

Ukraine views the UNDP as an important ally in advancing sustainable development and post-crisis recovery. Due to the current situation in the country, national stability and economic growth have taken a hit, which means the need for effective international development partnerships has increased. In this context, Ukraine believes that the UNDP is an indispensable ally for supporting reform in governance, all around reconstruction, and humanitarian coordination.

Ukraine values the role UNDP has played in strengthening democratic institutions and advancing decentralization reforms to an extreme extent. This role is impactful in a unique way and aligns with Ukraine's goals and priorities of rebuilding the public's trust and accountable governance.

Furthermore, UNDP's work in digital governance and anti-corruption has contributed to improving public service and the effectiveness and overall optimality of the public service delivered to the citizens. On top of that, Ukraine recognizes UNDP's contribution to socio-economic recovery by supporting local communities, employment opportunities, and small to medium-sized enterprises. These efforts promote inclusive development and enhance community resilience in vulnerable and conflict-affected regions.

In conclusion, Ukraine considers the UNDP as an essential ally and partner in achieving sustainable recovery and advancing the 2030 Agenda for sustainable development. It remains and will continue to remain committed to continuing the cooperation to ensure long-term stability and prosperity.
