The Islamic Republic of Iran is home to the largest and most long-term stays due to their situation, and taking shelter in a year-round holiday camps. Forty years since the Soviet invasions of 1979 and the ensuing Afghanistan, it remains the longest-term contract UNHCR has ever held. About five million Afghans have been used abroad; 90% is hosted by the Islamic Republics of Pakistan and Iran.

In Iran, the government's progressive and inclusive policies have given refugees access to education, health and livelihood opportunities - helping them not only survive but thrive. It is estimated that 96% of refugees in Iran live in cities, towns and villages alongside the Iranian host community, 4% live in 20 settlements managed by UNHCR's main government counterpart, the Office of Aliens and Foreign Migration Affairs (BAFIA). Ministry.

As a solutions a this;

Through UNHCR, we have defended and will continue to defend refugees on issues of discrimination. In our country, serious measures are taken regarding this issue, and we do our best to ensure that settlements do not fall behind with educational and cultural activities in helping refugees.
